

Here comes the Columbus Classic 57m motor yacht and DIVINE Sport Hybrid 40M

17/05/2015 We already wrote about the scheduled launch in Naples to take place with the second Sport Hybrid 40M and the long-anticipated Classic 57M built by Palumbo's Columbus Yachts shipyard.

Since everything was kept secret for the Columbus Classic 57 meters motor yacht until her launch with not even one rendering available, media and onlookers took the opportunity to throw an eye on this brand new superyacht designed by Sergio's Cutolo's Hydro Tec and Palumbo Group, whereby the interior voluminous interior has been the responsibility of Francesca Cianficconi's YachtDesign 4C.

Built with a steel and aluminium superstructure the fully custom Classic 57M displacement yacht belongs to the middle line up of the 44-75 meters Classic line already inaugurated in 2011 by the 53.70 PRIMA luxury motor yacht.

Columbus Yachts, commented her interior which: "can best be described in one word: eclectic. A variety of particular woods, mirrors and marbles were mixed together in order to create a unique environment inspired by natural elements."

If you think the interior images have been finally unveiled you are wrong as the shipyard still prefers to keep things a little bit private.

Being in the shadow of the Columbus Classic 57, the second Sport Hybrid 40 superyacht has been launched and named DIVINE. Built on the 40S Hybrid platform where the unit one is for sale, DIVINE has mainly the same features as her predecessor: light-weight aluminium hull, modern exterior and interior lines with the optional eco friendly advanced electric propulsion system. Furthermore DIVINE features a few large balconies to round up the exterior amenities.

The Italian Columbus Yachts shipyard belonging to the Palumbo group is based in Port of Naples where the yard is currently working on the first superyacht of the 70M Sport Oceanic range designed by Studio Vafiadis.
